REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

IN presenting to the friends and supporters of the College a short sketch of the work of another year, the Committee are thankful to be able to report satisfactory progress. The spirit of work has pervaded every department. Professors, teachers, officers, and pupils have been moved by a common inspiration, and, with few exceptions, all have contributed their full share to the practical results which have been obtained.

Under God's blessing, and owing to careful sanitary arrangements, the general health of the School has been very good. There has, however, been one case of pneumonia, and also two slight cases of scarlatina; this, however, was prevented from spreading by prompt and complete isolation.

The financial position of the College up to September 30, 1881, will be found in the Balance Sheet. There has, unfortunately, been another deficit, which had to be met by temporary loans. These deficits arise simply from the fact that the College has no endowment, and but a small list of annual subscribers. The principal income is derived from payments for pupils, and as the ordinary payment does not quite cover the cost of each pupil, it follows that these deficits must recur, unless larger donations or subscriptions are received independently of payments for pupils. To this cause must be added the necessity of providing for the interest on the mortgage, which amounts to £600 a year. No doubt as the work of the College becomes more generally known, increased subscriptions, donations, and bequests will come in, but in the meantime the difficulty of making the year's income meet the expenditure presses heavily on the Committee; they are, however, determined not to balance income and expenditure by stinting the necessary outlay on education, which would have the effect of diminishing the present satisfactory results. On the contrary, they believe that funds will be provided as long as the College continues to send out large numbers of well-educated blind men and women who are able to maintain themselves, and so to contribute to the general good.

Subsequent to the date of the Balance Sheet, Dr. Armitage has in a great measure covered the deficit by a gift of £1,000, for which the most cordial thanks of the Committee are due.

It must be a source of satisfaction to the founders and promoters of this Institution to see that, after so short a time, it has grown to its present dimensions, and especially that the great majority of the pupils there educated (about 80 per cent.) become thoroughly self-sustaining. But one of the consequences of this success is the ever-increasing demand for admission; and, unless these candidates can be received by the foundation of fresh Scholarships, many will pass the age for satisfactory education, and will become more or less permanently a burden on their friends or on the rates.

The Preparatory School mentioned in the Principal's Report (p. 20) will, when established, constitute a very important part of our work, as it will afford young blind children excellent elementary instruction at a comparatively small expense. Much of the instruction will be given by the advanced pupils, which will be carrying out the principle of training teachers contemplated when the College was founded.

Meetings and Concerts.

The interest shown in the College by former Chief Magistrates of the City of London has been continued, the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs having paid their annual visit in November, and expressed a warm interest in the work.

In the early spring a meeting was arranged to take place in Exeter Hall, immediately after the reopening under the management of the Young Men's Christian Association. H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh was to have presided, and many eminent men had promised to take part. It was, however, found necessary to postpone it sine die, owing to the death of the Czar, which took place a few days before the date fixed for the meeting.

In March a meeting of the Vice-Presidents and Members of the General Council was held at the College, when a statement of the work and general condition of the Institution was submitted.

In June the College was visited by a party of blind instrumentalists from Milan, who were brought to England through the kindness of Colonel and Mrs. Richardson-Gardner.

In the same month meetings were held in the Lecture Room of the Rev. Dr. Dykes' church, and at Messrs. Metzler's Music Rooms, 36 Great Marlborough Street.

On July 13 the Annual Prize Festival was held at the College, His Grace the Duke of Westminster presiding. Addresses were delivered by the Right Hon. H. Fawcett, M.P., J. A. Campbell, Esq., M.P., Colonel Richardson-Gardner, M.P., and Wm. Shaen, Esq. The prizes were presented by Mrs. Richardson-Gardner, and the diplomas by Countess Grosvenor.

At St. James's Hall, Sterndale Bennett's 'Woman of Samaria,' Beethoven's 'Choral Fantasia,' Mendelssohn's 'Caprice in B Minor,' and other interesting works were given (in conjunction with a select orchestra under the conductorship of Mr. August Manns). By special request, the 'Woman of Samaria' was repeated at the Alexandra Palace. It was also given to a large and appreciative audience in the Rev. Dr. Fraser's Church, Marylebone.

The pupils have also taken part in many religious and philanthropic meetings. They sang at the Annual Christmas meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, Aldersgate Street; at Cannon Street Hotel, for the Stepney Crèche; at Whitechapel, in aid of the Indigent Blind Visiting Society; at the May Meetings in Exeter Hall; at a meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, Richmond; several Missionary meetings in the East end of London; various entertainments for working people; and numerous Temperance meetings in London and elsewhere.

The best thanks of the Committee are due to the members of the Royal Family, who have always graciously aided the work of the College; to the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor; to Mr. August Manns, who year after year has kindly volunteered his services as conductor of the Annual Orchestral Concert; to the Rev. Donald Fraser, D.D., and the Rev. J. Oswald Dykes, D.D., Mr. and Miss Eyre, Messrs. Metzler & Co., and others who have aided the work; to Sir Moses Montefiore, Bart., Sir Chas. Lowther, Bart., Miss Stocken, Messrs. E. J. Hopkins, W. H. Cummings, F. Hartvigson, and Prof. Antoine, for prizes given at the Prize Festival; also to Prof. Antoine for valuable voluntary services as Professor of French; to Sir Peter Coats, for two strong boats, and a day's 'outing' for the whole School at the Zoological Gardens, to the Trustees of the Williams Library, through Mr. Shaen, for valuable standard books;* to the British and Foreign Bible Society, to Sir Charles Lowther, Bart., and Dr. Armitage, for liberal grants of embossed books; to His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury, for his annual gift of a handsome Christmas-tree; also to the numerous friends who by gifts and other assistance help to make the season of Christmas a joyful and pleasant one.

* Presents to the College Library of standard works in ordinary type are much appreciated, as the teachers read daily to the various classes.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

THE Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind was opened March 1st, 1872.

In the present Report we will give an account of our stewardship, state our principles of working, summarise the results of our ten years' labour, and point out what is necessary to enable the College, as a National Institution, to meet the educational and musical requirements of the Blind.

The College embraces a Preparatory School,* a Grammar and High School, a Technical School, and an Academy of Music. The course of instruction includes the following departments :

1. General Education.
2. The Science and Practice of Music.
3. Training of Teachers.
4. Pianoforte Tuning.

In each department the instruction is directed to the practical end of preparing the blind for self-maintenance.

The results of our training have proved beyond question that young blind persons of either sex, of good moral character and ordinary mental capacity, can, with proper training, be made entirely self-sustaining. The failures which have occurred in our work have been cases which were wanting in moral character, or were too old when they entered. At least 80 per cent. of all the pupils who have completed a regular course of training and obtained certificates are entirely self-supporting. The College has proved the quality of its work by practical results, and we confidently appeal for increasing support.

Canon Barry, D.D., Principal of King's College, has ably stated our needs: 'The Royal Normal College needs first what almost all institutions of higher education do need—the start of first establishment. So it was with the colleges reared centuries ago in our universities by the munificence of pious founders. So it is with the younger colleges and schools, which have sprung up so marvellously in the course of this century. Such aid this College has already received from open-handed liberality. But its establishment is not yet completed, and it is not yet, so far as it has gone, unencumbered. For such completion, that it may start free, well organised, sufficient for its purpose, it has still to plead. It needs (again in this respect not unlike other such institutions) the help of scholarships or exhibitions—to be given partly by competition, partly after qualifying examination to the claims of poverty—by which the poorer blind, who are capable of higher education, may enjoy it side by side with their richer brethren. If we are to realise the hope, which has been nobly expressed, that the ladder of education shall be set up between the lowest and highest grades of society, and that no one who has once set his foot on it shall be prevented from climbing as high as he has strength and nerve to climb, it is just this aid which is needed, and which is being gradually supplied. For those who see, it is enjoyed already; from lower to higher schools, from higher schools to colleges, they can rise by this aid. What this College asks is, that this same aid shall be given to the blind, who need it even more, and that, for want of it, the College shall not be obliged to refuse those who could come to it and profit by its teaching, but who, unaided, cannot afford to come. But it needs, above all, a thorough understanding of its position and its aims, and a recognition by high authority of its value as a necessary part of the higher education of the country.'

We also quote from the Archbishop of York: 'The blind are receiving in this College the best education possible; it is a public school, not a charity in the ordinary sense; but endowments to start it well are necessary, just as they have been found necessary for the higher education which is given to the seeing at Oxford, Cambridge, and elsewhere. The College is performing a most useful work in affording so perfect a system of education to the blind, and thus enabling them to rise to independent positions.'

On the same occasion, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales said: 'I entirely agree with every word which has fallen from the Archbishop of York and Canon Barry, in urging that an institution of this kind is one well worthy of support by the community at large. There is no doubt that amongst the many misfortunes which may happen, under the will of God, to any of us, none can be greater than the loss of sight. It is therefore our duty to help those who find themselves in that unfortunate predicament. At this College, by careful tuition, you give them the means to enable them in setting out in life, not to be thrown on the care of relatives and friends, but to be able to shift for themselves.'

Scholarships.

Last September, in response to a unanimous request from the Gardner Trustees, Mr. Justice Fry allowed £1,000 from the accumulating interest of the Gardner Legacy to be used for temporary scholarships. The Gardner Trustees conferred with the College authorities, and arranged to assist twenty-three pupils* during the year. A large number of candidates were examined, and so far as possible the selection was made according to merit. Doubtless when the permanent scheme of the Gardner Legacy has been inaugurated, the Trustees will adopt a well-digested plan of annual examinations, in order to give the blind throughout England and Wales an equal opportunity of competing for the Gardner Scholarships. Such a course will raise the standard of education for the blind throughout the country, give them a new cause for exertion, and produce the best results.

But even if a liberal number of scholarships are granted from the Gardner Legacy, it will only provide for a few of those who are pleading for admission to the College. We have many pressing applications from all parts of the United Kingdom, and we earnestly ask the Corporation and Guilds of London to found scholarships at the College, for the benefit of deserving young blind persons. They, with some of the leading business firms, liberally contributed towards the establishment of the College.† This assistance was granted at a comparatively early stage of our work, and to show how the money has been used, we point to the practical results which have been obtained. And while we express our grateful appreciation on behalf of happy blind men and women, who have gone forth to take an independent part in the busy world, we ask for additional help for the increasing numbers appealing for education. Doubtless those who are doing so much for the technical and musical education of seeing persons, will support with even greater liberality, this corresponding work for the blind.

*Employment of Pupils.**

Since the date of our last report fourteen pupils have left us—four for various reasons did not complete the entire course, but even these are labouring to establish good connections.

Miss H. Carson has taken charge of the Musical Department in the Institution for the Blind at Glasgow.

Miss Jane Butler has been appointed one of the permanent teachers of the blind children under the London School Board.

Miss Eliza Mayne is governess of two blind children in a family at Bridgewater.

Miss Annie Stewart is teacher and organist in a Home and School for Cripples, near Tunbridge Wells.

Mr. George Hall has established a good tuning connection in Darlington.

Mr. John Tait is a successful teacher, organist, and tuner, in Hamilton.

Mr. Robert Watson is a tuner in Glasgow.

Mr. George M'Nab in Paisley, Mr. Thomas Bennie in Kilwinning, and Mr. George Black in Newcastle, have been a short time at work, and are endeavouring to establish private tuning connections.

Mr. Frank Lattey only recently went to Calcutta, and we have just heard of his arrival.

Mr. John Pryde was giving promise of success in the profession of music, but his friends, contrary to the judgment of the principal and professors of the College, insisted upon his beginning work as a pianoforte tuner. We hear he is doing comparatively well.

Mr. Arthur Stericker, of Hull, teacher, organist, and pianoforte tuner.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

Pupils of different ages and acquirements have hitherto been received at any time of the year, hence it has been impossible to arrange a systematic course of study. The establishment of the Preparatory School will overcome this difficulty, and enable us in future to restrict the admission of pupils to stated periods; and also to require, as a condition of admission, that they shall be able to undertake the studies of the first form.

The complete College course will require not less than six years, and will comprise a Regular, or Grammar and High School course of four years, and a Scientific, or Advanced course of two years. All pupils, except those who come for some special purpose, as pianoforte tuning, must take the four years' course, unless they can pass a satisfactory examination in all the English subjects. It is a well-established truth, that the blind who achieve the highest success in the profession of music, are those who have received the best mental culture; therefore we recommend the musical students to take the entire course, even if it is necessary to extend the time to complete their professional studies. Musical students, especially vocalists, who cannot take the entire course, will have opportunities for studying modern languages.

In the Educational Department the instruction will be sufficient, and in many subjects more than is required, for the matriculation examination in the University of London, and in special cases the time may be extended with a view to the B.A. degree. In the Musical Department the instruction will be sufficient to prepare talented and industrious students for university degrees.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

The Preparatory School will be conducted on the Kindergarten system. Fröbel's principle of self-work and self-help is far more essential in the training of blind than of seeing children. Special care will be given to the moral, mental, and physical training of the children, and, as a foundation for all their future work, orderly habits, good manners, and upright conduct will be inculcated.

Besides Kindergarten work the instruction will include Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, and Object Lessons in the elements of various subjects.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The musical instruetion in its several branches of harmouy, pianoforte, organ, and voeal culture, is addressed to the mind, and not merely to the ear. This is the only possible method by which musical trainiug can be made of praetical use to the blind.

For direct instruetion in each branch we have an able professor, several assistants, practising monitors, and a music reader, whieh placees our pupils on an equal footing with seeing pupils in other schools of musie.

The indirect instruction is seareely less important than the direct, and the latter is by no means complete without it. It is gained in the eoneerts and recitals, which familiarise the pupils with the best works of the great masters, and render their musical culture more comprehensive.

But we should speacially mention the musical advantages of the Crystal Palae, where there are good musical performances every day, several symphouies each week, and an annual series of Saturday classical eoueerts unsurpassed by any in the kingdom.

* This course of Lectures has been established by the joint liberality of Dr. Carpenter and the Gilchrist Trustees.

Our very best thanks are due to the Crystal Palace Directors for the uniform kindness and consideration shown to our pupils.

During the year a number of concerts have been given. Programmes of the Annual Concert at St. James's Hall, on March 16; the Prize Festival, on July 13; and the Christmas Festival, on December 19, are given at Appendix C.

Non-resident seeing pupils can receive instruction in this department. For all particulars, application should be made to the Principal before the beginning of each term.

TECHNICAL SCHOOL.

PIANOFORTE TUNING AND HANDICRAFT.

The work in this department has been prosecuted with unusual vigour. Pianoforte tuning is one of the best employments for the Blind, but I cannot urge too strongly the necessity of thorough training. If we ask the public to employ Blind workmen, they must serve a regular apprenticeship, and fit themselves to do good work.

To enable the Blind to become efficient pianoforte tuners, it is absolutely essential that they should work a number of hours daily, under suitable tuition, for a period of at least three years. To achieve success, some require a longer course, as it often happens that a careful cultivation of the musical sense is necessary. Even if a good ear and other requisites are possessed, long practice is necessary to bring the muscles of the wrist and hand under control. Our tuning connection has largely increased, and our young men have been kept very busy. This out-door work affords the tuners the experience required before they leave the College to begin business for themselves. When, after long and patient training, they are well qualified, we employ them on outside work, under the direction of the skilful head-master of this department.

Certificates.—Great care is exercised in granting certificates. Even after the College authorities are thoroughly satisfied, it is our rule to have the report of disinterested authorities who examine the work.

During the year we have introduced a new feature, for the object of training boys, and giving them dexterity in the management of tools, before they are strong enough to enter upon the regular work of the pianoforte tuning department. We have a shop fitted with a full set of carpenter's tools and appliances. Some of the boys have shown great skill in their use; among other things they have manufactured several carts, with which they have established regular omnibus lines between the upper and lower playgrounds. These have afforded them constant exercise and amusement during the hours of play, from early morning till late at night. Even while we write, we hear the shouts of the drivers and conductors, and the rattle of the omnibus wheels. Anyone can have a ride for a halfpenny, and be insured for a farthing; at the rate they go round the corners and down the hill, we are inclined to recommend the insurance, although our own rides have been made in safety.

PHYSICAL TRAINING.

Although we have given prominence to this subject in previous Reports, we return to it because we are more and more impressed with the truth of our former statement, that the physical training of the blind must form the basis of a successful education. Even if a blind person becomes an aecomplished scholar, a good musician, or a skilled mechanie, without physical training, who will employ him, whatever his attainments, if he is timid, awkward, and helpless?

By eareful examination, it will be found that the blind men who are leading lives of usefulness, are those who have not allowed their blindness to debar them from physical aetivity. Professor Fawcett, in his able addresses on blindness, has repeatedly borne testimony to this fundamental truth. The pupils of the Royal Normal College who have been most energetic in regard to their physical development, have achieved the best results, when they have gone forth to test their value in the open market. Owing to the lack of physical training, young blind persons come to us awkward and helpless, although they have been several years under mechanical training.

A young man, nineteen years of age, of great natural musical talent, was sent to the College after spending nine years in other schools, at a cost to the public of not less than £400. He was unable to grip a pair of plyers to eut an ordinary wire ; he had not even sufficient strength in his hands to write ; the best years of his life had been wasted, nominally in learning to spin twine, but really in dreaming away his existence. It was useless to put him in the gymnasium, for his museles were like those of a little child. We began by giving him small weights to hold in his hands, afterwards to raise, increasing them from time to time, until more severe exercisec could be undertaken. He has been with us three mouths ; he can now work pulleys with 7-lb. weights attached, perform exercises on the parallel bars, and swing himself in the hand rings, and he already writes creditably. If he had received suitable physical training in boyhood, his whole future life would have been different; now it will be difficult, perhaps impossible, to make him even a pianoforte-tuner.

Institutions for the Blind, whether schools or workshops, should recognise the importance of physical training. We are convinced that establishmeuts for teaching various kinds of handicraft, would obtain better results, if they would make practical arrangements and employ competent teachers for physical training. The blind workmen would soon become more confident, energetic, and skilful.

All our resident teachers are required to understand and take part in this fundamental work.

Our arrangements for physical training include walking in the open air, games, athletic sports in the playground, skating, rowing, military drill, gymnastics, calisthenics, and dancing. Besides rocking boats, tilt, self-acting swings, giant-stride, &c., we have a well arranged gymnasium under cover.

BOOKS AND APPARATUS.

The activity of the British and Foreign Blind Association,* within the last three or four years, has produced very gratifying results. A number of excellent school books have been embossed, and good maps have been produced at a price which enables each pupil in a class to have one. Formerly, all the instruction was given orally, but now much of the work can be placed under the fingers of the pupils, and they can prepare their lessons like sighted pupils at an ordinary school. If the work of the Association continue as energetic as hitherto, within five years the education of the blind, so far as the school-room is concerned, will be revolutionised. The musical department has also come in for its share. 'Concone's 50 Lessons for the Voice,' 'Plaidy's Technical Studies for the Piano,' 'Czerny's Op. 261 and 337,' 'Burgmüller's 25 Studies, Op. 100,' have been published within a few months. Banister's 'Harmony and Counterpoint' is now being stereotyped, and the 'Cathedral Psalter'* will be printed during the present season.

* Full particulars in regard to books, apparatus, and music of the British and Foreign Blind Association will be found in Appendix E.

Conclusion.

In the outset our work was regarded with incredulity. Through many weary years the blind had read at the street corners, or made their painful way through the crowded thoroughfares, until men accepted their helpless condition as the hopeless lot of the unfortunate blind. Business men, with a sigh of pity, gave subscriptions for their relief, but when asked in 1871 to give efficient help for the higher and technical education of the blind, the charitable aspect of the question was still uppermost in their minds. As a rule, they shook their heads doubtfully, and replied: 'All should contribute to alleviate the miserable lot of the blind, but is it reasonable to ask for so costly an education for poor blind children? Even if you educate them, they cannot find employment. In France and America, the blind may be employed, but in England every walk in life is already overcrowded ; the blind will have no chance of success. Prove your case by practical results, then we will give your scheme the same liberal support, we accord to similar educational movements for the sighted.'

In France and America, the education of the blind is under the liberal patronage of Government, but, without any such assistance, we have achieved in this country a percentage of success, for the blind of both sexes, hitherto unknown either in Europe or America. And by success, we do not mean a mere pittance, scarcely sufficient to support life, but a comfortable maintenance, even a power of accumulating. Look at the cases of Paton and Thorntwaite in Tasmania ; Home in Ceylon ; Raymond in Cauada ; Ewing, McIntosh, Wylie, and McDonald, Misses Carson and Dick in Glasgow ; Forbes in Dundee ; Whitton in Wishaw ; Tait in Hamilton ; McLachlan in Dumfries ; Scorah in Aldford ; Cookson in Liverpool ; Robson in Leeds ; Hall in Darlington ; Baynon and Thomas in Bristol ; Miss Devine in Huddersfield ; Mepham, Ward, and Gregory, Misses Scott, Weaver, and Butler in London ; Wilnot in Croydon ; Field and Miss Campbell in Upper Norwood, and others.

After ten years' hard work, we return with rejoicing, bringing our sheaves with us ; these establish our case : the blind, by suitable technical training, can be made self-sustaining. With open doors we invite business men and the friends of education to investigate our work. The Royal Normal College appeals not only for continued support, but for the means to enlarge and perfect its work in every department.

We appeal to the land of Smart, Stanley, Sanderson, Handel, and Milton. We appeal to the nation which to-day numbers among her active workers such blind gentlemen as Rev. N. F. McNeile, Rev. H. R. J. Marston,

A. W. Ranger, Esq., M.A., B.C.L.; Wm. A. Arrol, Esq., one of Glasgow's most successful business men and leader in the movement for the higher education of the blind in the west of Scotland; Sir Chas. Lowther, Bart., and W. Moon, Esq., LL.D., noted for their missionary work among the blind, and the gift of the Bible in a readable type, to the blind of all classes and conditions, in different countries; Dr. G. A. Macfarren, Principal of the Royal Academy and Professor of Musical Composition at Cambridge; T. R. Armitage, Esq., M.D., the philanthropic pioneer in the higher education of the blind, who is devoting his life and fortune to the amelioration of their lot; the Right Hon. Hy. Fawcett, M.P., Professor at Cambridge and Postmaster-General.

Will the nation whose power encircles the globe, and which is even stronger in good works than material power, turn a deaf ear to this appeal for the education and technical training of her blind children?

APPENDIX A.

RULES AND TERMS FOR THE ADMISSION OF PUPILS.

1. The College is open to the young of either sex and of any rank, but only those will be received as pupils who, in the opinion of the Principal, show sufficient ability to render it probable that by instruction they can be rendered capable of self-support.

2. As without previous trial it would in many cases be difficult to determine whether an applicant for admission has sufficient capacity for the kind of education given at the College, candidates will first be received as probationers for a period of three months or less. If, at the end of that period, they are found to possess adequate ability, they may become permanent pupils.

3. The expenses of maintaining a pupil at the College may either be defrayed by the parents or friends of the pupil, or he may be nominated to a 'Scholarship,' subscribed for by individuals, corporations, or local committees organised for the purpose, in any town or neighbourhood.

4. The annual charge for pupils up to 13 years of age is £50 per annum; and over 13 years of age, £60 per annum. The charge for children in the Preparatory School will be £35.

5. For private pupils the terms will, in each case, be matter of special arrangement.

6. The charges for resident pupils include board, lodging, washing, and medical attendance; but not clothing or travelling expenses. Payments in all cases must be made for each term in advance. All cheques and Post Office Orders, in payment for pupils, should be sent to the Principal at the College. Reductions in these terms are made for specially eligible destitute candidates, according to the funds at the disposal of the Committee.

7. It is suggested that in the case of pupils sent as free scholars the parties sending them may require that an agreement shall be signed on behalf of the pupils that, in the event of their subsequently earning a sufficient sum to repay the whole or part of the cost of their education, they should do so by instalments, such repayments to go towards the formation of fresh scholarships. A double advantage would accrue to the Blind from this arrangement; namely, a feeling of independence on their own part would be encouraged, and a fund would be secured for continuing the benefits of the Institution to others.

8. The School year will be divided into three terms: The first term will begin on the first Thursday in October, and close on the 23rd December; the second term will begin on January 2nd, and close on March 31; the third term will begin on the 1st of April, and close on the first Thursday in August. The summer vacation will begin on the first Thursday in August, and close on the first Thursday in October. Except in cases of severo illness, the pupils are expected to be in attendance at the College on that day.

9. As a rrule, pnplils will only be admitted at the beginning of the October or Easter term. If possible, pupils should enter on the first Thursday in October. When this is not practicable, the first Tuesday after Easter.

10. As it is of the utmost importance to keep np home ties between pupils and their families, it is desirable that all pnplils shall spend at least the summer vacion with their parents or friends.

11. The use of tobaco in all forms is strictly forbidden. All pnplils, without regard to age, during their eonection with the College, must abstain from the use of tobacco either on or off the College premises.

12. The use of beer, wine, &c., is only allowed when ordered by the medical authorities of the College.

13. All pupils must be provided with strong clothes, either new or in perfect repair, as in the lists which will be supplied at the College on application, and their parents or friends will be required to renew the clothing when deemed necessary by the Committee.

14. In all cases the following form must be filled up by a duly qnaliifed medical practitioner. The questions are not, however, put with a view to exelusion, but for information regarding the pupils :—

- (a) Is the applicant totally blind, or, if only partially so, has he suffieient sight to enable him to follow any profitable employmet?
- (b) What appears to have been the causo of blindness?
- (c) Has the applicant had the small-pox? Has he been vaceinated, and is there satisfactory evidence that the infection was complete?
- (d) Has he had the measles, whooping cough, or searlet fever?
- (e) Has he been subjeet to epileptic fits?
- (f) Is he free from serofula or eutaneous disease?

(Signed)

15. In cases in which the pupil is not entirely paid for by his or her friends, the following engagement must be signed by two respectable householders, independent of the paronts, and witnessed by the clergyman of the parish, or a magistrate, or by a member of a Local Committee :—

We, the undersigned, do jointly and severally engage, as long as remains a pupil in the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind, to keep him or her supplied with the stock of cloathing reqnired, as in the list furnished by the Committee ; and, further, to take and remove from the College during the vacations, or whenever required to do so by the Committee, and to pay all expenses of such removal, and, in case of death, all funeral expenses.

APPENDIX B.

Employment of Pupils.

FROM REPORT OF 1880.

The following particulars and extracts from letters bear testimony to the zeal and energy of our pupils :—

Samuel Barbour, 63 FitzRoy Avenue, one of our old pupils, who is successfully engaged in the coal trade at Belfast, after speaking of his business, adds : ‘It may be thought that I do not owe this to the College, but I beg leave to differ. If I had never been in the College, I never would have gained self-confidence, nor have had the courage to compete with my seeing brethren.’

Again, two of our young men, Mr. A. Paton, of Perth, and Mr. W. W. Thorntwaite, of Manchester, sailed for Hobart Town, Tasmania, upon the 14th ultimo.

Another young man, Mr. Montagu Raymond, went to Canada the past year, and is already well established. He writes : ‘I am happy to say I have been very busy lately, having had as much as I could do. I have been tuning in Buffalo for a musical professor and concert master from Berlin, Herr Emil Seifert, who wished me to reside permanently at Buffalo and tune for his concerts, &c. ; but, on considering the matter, I decided to remain in St. Catherine’s.’

Two other young men, Mr. J. Ewing and Mr. O. M’Intosh, have established and are carrying on a good business at 568 Sauchiehall Street, Charing Cross, Glasgow. In addition to their trade in pianofortes, harmoniums, &c., they have recently added the publication of music.

Mr. Charles Schwier, 39 Dunk Street, Mile End, E., who at first went out as a pianoforte tuner at a wage of 30s. per week, was unexpectedly called home by his father's illness. His father is a sugar refiner. The son undertook and is successfully carrying on the business.

Miss Marian Weaver, of 5 Swinbrook Road, Notting Hill, and Miss Elizabeth Scott, of 49 Frederick Street, Gray's Inn Road, are teaching under the London School Board with great success ; each at a salary of £70 per annum.

Miss Louisa Palmer, of 883 Old Kent Road, became blind while in the service of the School Board. A short residence at the College gave her practical experience in regard to blindness, and she is now doing good work as an instructor of the Blind in the Board Schools.

The Inspector speaks well of the character of the instruction. After a recent examination, Mr. Noble, one of the School Board Inspectors, wrote as follows to the Superintendent : ‘The summary of my Report, as submitted to the Sub-Committee yesterday, is: “The blind children are making marked progress under Miss Weaver, who is an able teacher. Those who attend the day-school keep well up with their more fortunate class fellows.” I think if I were to go into details, I could not convey a more accurate impression of the state of the class. Suffice it to say that I convinced myself by suitable tests that satisfactory progress is being made in reading, arithmetic, and spelling, and that Miss Weaver is a painstaking and energetic teacher. I was particularly struck with the rapidity as well as accuracy with which the children worked sums in mental arithmetic—sums much more difficult than any I should put to a class of seeing children with a reasonable expectation of receiving correct answers. Those attending the classes of the school are quite up to the other children, and in reading, rather above the average.'

Miss Bridget Devine has recently undertaken the instruction of the Blind in Huddersfield, under the Home Teaching Society.

John Scorah became organist of Aldford Church in December last, at a salary of £52 per annum. 'I am very comfortable and doing well. I already have six pupils and am establishing a regular connection of tuning. His Grace the Duke of Westminster was at church on the 11th. He spoke to me after the service and seemed much pleased.'

Miss J. Dick, Glasgow, teacher and solo-singer.

Miss A. Campbell, Royal Normal College, Upper Norwood, teacher and vocalist, is more than self-sustaining.

Miss M. Recce, Birkenhead, teacher and vocalist. Average earnings from £2 to £2 10s. per week. She has returned to the College for an extra year's instruction.

Arthur Wilmot, 77 St. James's Road, Croydon, teacher, organist, and solo singer. Has started in business within a few months, and is showing much energy in establishing a connection.

The last four mentioned are steadily gaining employment as solo singers.

William J. Cookson, 140 Wavertree Road, Liverpool.—‘Dear Sir,—We have great pleasure in stating that Mr. W. J. Cookson has been tuning for us for above two years, and has given every satisfaction. He has had some very fine work to do, concert grands, &c. We have never had to send him twice to the same job, having always done his work in a thorough, practical manner.—We are, dear Sir, yours faithfully, Crane and Sons, 217 to 223 Scotland Road, Liverpool.’

Charles C. Farmer,* 38 Gillespie Road, N., left the College in December last.—‘I am pleased to tell you that I have been very successful so far in working up my connection, and have not the least doubt that, if my health permit, I shall soon have my time fully occupied in my business ; and shall ever feel grateful to you and Dr. Armitage for the many advantages I have received while a pupil at the Royal Normal Collegc.’

Charles Hammett, Dudley, Southcote, Bournemouth, organist, teacher of the pianoforte and harmony, and conductor of two choral societies.

John Inglis, 16 Wright’s Houses, Bruntsfield Links, Edinburgh. In regard to him and others, I quote from the last Report of the Edinburgh Scholarship Committee.—‘The Committee can with thankfulness record that two of the girls sent by them to the * Deceased.

College in London are supporting themselves as teachers, one at the Blind School in Edinburgh, and one in connection with the London School Board ; one young man has been able to establish himself as partner in a music shop in Glasgow ; another (John Inglis) a tuner and pianist, in Edinburgh, is at present making about 27*s.* a week.' In a letter received this morning from the Secretary, Mr. J. P. Coldstream, he says : 'We have just found a new opening for Inglis, by which he added 15*s.* to his income last week.'

J. McLachlan, 12 West Morton Street, Thornhill, N.B.—'I have been with Mr. Fryer, Dumfries, for four and a half years, two of which I have been his principal tuner, and I travel over the greater part of the South of Scotland in connection with his business. For my part I consider the Royal Normal College the greatest blessing to those whom it is intended to benefit.'

Joshua Breton, 103 Portland Street, Sheffield.—'As conductor of a choral society I realise £26 ; from teaching about as much more ; my tuning varies from 7*s.* to £2 per week.'

James Ross, 38 Hardwicke Street, Dublin, left the College in January last.—' You will be glad to hear that I am getting on very well. I am getting up a very good connection, and the people for whom I have tuned are much pleased.'

William Robson, 21 Trinity Street, Leeds.—'I work for Mr. Ramsden, who has the largest music shop in Leeds ; in the evening I tune for myself. I have a piano now, and shall take pupils. I have taught a music reader who is now able to read fluently. I find it is not difficult to teach a sighted person to read music. My earnings vary from 28s. to 30s. per week; Christmas week I earned 35s. 6d. My work-hours are from 8.30 to 6, and 12 on Saturdays. I do six pianos a day.'

H. G. Thomas, 31 Paul Street, Kingsdown, Bristol.—'I am still at Messrs. B. Smith and Sons, and do much of their fine tuning.'

R. D. Wealands, 16 Villiers Street, Sunderland.—'I am able to say that since leaving your College last year Robert Wealands has never received any assistance from any source whatever, and has always been dependent upon his abilities as pianoforte tuner, an art taught him at the Royal Normal College . . . His work, both as a pianoforte tuner and repairer, has given general satisfaction, and in no instance has there been the slightest demur in regard to his work.—S. B. McLagan, Manager, Institution for the Blind, Sunderland.'

J. Williams, 1 Bath Villas, Muswell Road, N.—'I am able to get my living by tuning, the knowledge of which I acquired at the Royal Normal College.'

R. Wylie, 58 Taylor Street, Glasgow.—'This is to certify that Robert Wylie has been in the employment of the late firm of Swan and Pentland for upwards of two years, and with the present firm for about sixteen months, engaged as pianoforte tuner. He was most conscientious in the performance of his duties. Being steady in his habits and obliging, he was held in the highest respect, both by his employers and his fellow-workmen.—(Signed) David Swan, 49 Buehanan Street.

He has returned to the College for a short time to prepare himself as an organist.

J. Connor was for two and a half years employed by Messrs. Wood, Muir, and Co., Glasgow. Has removed to Leeds, and his address is unknown. He left Messrs. Wood and Co. on account of the great depression in trade ; when leaving, he wrote me he had saved enough to support himself a year.

J. McDonald (Messrs. Adams and Co., Buehanan Street, Glasgow).—For more than five years this firm has borne the highest testimony to McDonald's industry and good work.

A. C. Baynon, 32 Triangle, Queen's Road, Clifton, Bristol, pianoforte tuner.—Is doing well ; he is highly commended by those who sent him to the College.

Jessie Denholm supports herself as teacher at the Craigmillar Institution for the Blind, Edinburgh.

SON AND STRANGER: an Operetta. By FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

This work, finished by Mendelssohn in the year 1829, was a gift brought by him from abroad after his first long absence from home—having been written for the family festival of the ‘silver wedding,’ or the twenty-fifth anniversary of his father and mother’s wedding day. On that oecasion it was executed in private by his friends and relations.

These circumstances invested this ‘Liederspiel,’ in the eyes of its composer, with the intimate sanctity belonging to a purely domestic record. For this reason it was never produced or published during his life-time. Those, however, who had charge of Mendelssohn’s posthumous works conceived it a duty to present to the musical world a composition in itself so fresh and so decisive as to the dramatic power of its writer.

A number of educational and other works are also published in the Braille Type in French, German, Danish, and Italian, which may be obtained from the Blind Institutions at Paris, Lausanne, Copenhagen, and Milan. The whole Bible is printed in French, and the Gospel of St. John in German at Lausanne.

The following are a few of the Educational Books printed in Paris (Braille Type) most likely to be of use to English readers.

ARITHMETIC BOARD.

The Arithmetic Board sold by the Association has eight-sided openings into which four-sided pins fit, having a plain ridge on one end, and two points on the other, thus eight positions of the pin can be obtained with the plain ridge uppermost, and by reversing the pin, eight more positions with the points uppermost, as will be seen by the following diagram.

Opening in the board

the reception of the pins.

THE BRAILLE ALPHABET, WITH CONTRACTIONS.

The large dots represent the raised points of the Braille letter; the small simply serve to indicate their position in the group of six.
